

A Family History Questionnaire

by Virginia Allee

Introduction

The purpose of this questionnaire is to provide you with a mind jogger to help you in making notes on your own life or to guide you in recording the life experiences of another member of your family. The information you record will become an important link between you and your descendants. It will serve as a means of conveying a picture of what your life has been like and a sense of what has been important to you.

At the top of a sheet of paper write:

- The full name, date and place of birth of yourself.
- The full name, date and place of birth of your mother (maiden name) and the full name, date and place of birth of your father.
- The full name, date and place of birth of your brothers and sisters (with spouses' names).
- The full name, date and place of birth of your children (with spouses' names).

Write your thought on sheets of good quality paper numbering each answer to correspond to the appropriate question. Write your name on each sheet, too, and leave room to add new thoughts later.

Read only a few questions ahead or you will never get started. Combine questions if you wish and skip those that do not seem to apply to you or that you cannot or choose not to answer. And answer any additional questions that occur to you.

Do not start out trying to produce a finished composition; just let your memories flow naturally. Later, you or perhaps your child or great-grandchild can edit it. Right now you are simply gathering the all-important facts and memories.

Work for short periods of time. You can continue your answers at odd moments or you can stop to ponder or discuss them. But spend your time writing rather than rereading your earlier answers or slow progress may discourage you.

You might want to compose your answers as though you are writing a letter to your family—to people you know and love—for that is essentially what you are doing. Start out with something like this: You and I are of the same blood. I want you to know something about me and our family. My name is Jane Doe. I was born July 10, 1921, in the town of... After that, the rest is easy.
